Dean of SOEP

Prof. Hala Sakr

Dear graduates of 2025

Yesterday, a student; today, a graduate; tomorrow, a successful professional — but most importantly, forever part of the SOEP family that continues to grow. I stand here on behalf of SOEP family to congratulate you on your success and achievements.

Feeling very proud of you, not only for graduating, but because throughout your journey - which I have witnessed - you have proven and shown resilience and flexibility. You have exerted effort, worked hard, spoke your minds out, debated, negotiated and more importantly questioned everything. Indeed! If this is not true learning then what is?!

Class 2025 you deserve to enjoy celebrating your success and to look forward to your new life, your real life starts today. A life that is so dynamic, challenging, and competitive. Yet I am positive you are very well prepared for it.

Believe in yourself & your abilities, yet, always be humble. Go after your targets & dreams and work hard with persistence & perseverance. I always say the future belongs to those who believe in their dreams, yet don't forget to balance your ambition with your humanity.

Never ever forget or lose your values. The values that we planted since your first day at SOEP. Humanity, fairness, honesty and the list goes on. That's what makes you valuable. Those values will protect you during your journey. Integrity is the key to self-respect which in turn will bring you other's respect and true success.

I hope that we SOEP family were able to equip you with skills, experience, advice & all the support you needed to navigate your lives and careers into the future, and I promise we are always there for you for any advice.

Last but not least, I can't end my words without thanking and appreciating the efforts of NGU leaders, SOEP Professors, TAs, and admins, in addition to your dear parents and families for their continuous trust, support, care and love.

Congratulations, Class of 2025!

About the School

The School of Economics and Politics welcomed its inaugural intake of students in the academic year (2019/2020). The school aspires to become the leading educational institution for Economics and Politics in the MENA region.

Mission

SOEP's mission revolves around striving for excellence in higher education and scientific research by attracting top students and preparing competent, adaptable, and competitive graduates. These graduates will be equipped with research skills, well-versed in modern economic analysis tools, capable of formulating policies and making sound economic decisions, and knowledgeable about research methodologies in political science and international negotiation mechanisms. Additionally, SOEP aims to graduate students who can keep pace with the continuous changes in the economic and political arenas, represent Egypt in international organizations and forums, and actively participate in political life.

Vision

Create a community of interdisciplinary researchers, professors and students who foster excellence and encourage innovation. This community will spearhead academic and scientific advancement in the region and across the world by building a solid foundation for the 21st century learning.

SOEP Strategic Objectives:

- 1) Enhancing the college's academic competitiveness by offering internationally accredited educational programs that align with the latest global standards, in partnership with leading educational institutions.
- 2) Graduating academic and professional cadres characterized by creativity, critical thinking, and leadership in their respective fields through the development of personal and scientific skills.
- 3) Strengthening the School's status as an internationally oriented educational institution that attracts students from around the world, thereby promoting cultural diversity and academic excellence.
- 4) Building a leading research environment that supports innovation and knowledge and contributes to the production of impactful scientific research at both the local and regional levels.
- 5) Activating the role of the school as a developmental institution that contributes to community service through effective and sustainable partnerships with civil society organizations and both the public and private sectors.
